Because democracy is not a spectator sport . . .

The League of Women Voters, a nonpartisan political organization, encourages the informed and active participation of citizens in government and influences public policy through education and advocacy.

The League of Women Voters started after women fought for the right to vote.

HISTORY OF THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS OF ATLANTA-FULTON COUNTY

"Will you help? We need you urgently. All who picket must be prepared for imprisonment. The longest sentence which can be imposed in six months." (Alice Paul, National Women's Party, 1917)

In this 1917 letter to Eleonore Raoul, an Atlanta suffragist and future League of Women Voters founding member, women from Atlanta are called on to support the struggle for the right to vote. The League of Women Voters of Atlanta-Fulton County grew from the strength, commitment and courage of this movement.

In January of 1919 it was evident that the women's suffrage would become constitutional. Eleonore Raoul was the driving force in organizing the Atlanta League of Women Voters that was founded in 1920, one month before the National League was established in Chicago. From the beginning the League's primary objective was to get women to register and vote. The League quickly became noted for its registration campaigns and the use of candidate questionnaires.

Almost immediately the League began to work for better government. In 1922, the League studied plans for an Atlanta City Charter. The Atlanta League of Women Voters supported the Atlanta Plan Charter, beginning a long history of study and action on government structure.

Over the past eighty years the League of Women Voters of Atlanta-Fulton County has changed with the times, matured with experience and been strengthened by challenge. As we continue our commitment to voter registration/education and responsible government we can look back with pride at the women and men who have been part of the League. The call still echoes . . ."Will you help? We need you urgently."
